Attachments: Nitro Pdf Menu Bar DisappearedQ: What happened to Digg? Being the tech news aggregator of choice for new computer users, Digg is at the front of everyone's mind. The weekend just past had not delivered a Digg story, no mainstream news sites went Digg-exclusive, so why is this website about technology news no longer? Am I missing something or has anyone seen something different? Is Digg retreating from the news market? Is it relaunching, perhaps as a video and podcast aggregator? A: The Wikipedia entry on Digg isn't very up to date (or, I suspect, accurate). On July 19, 2007, Digg was acquired by Google.[2] On August 28, 2007, Digg started beta testing a new "Digg 4 News" product.[3] On October 24, 2007, Digg 4 News was launched.[4] So it looks like they spent time on it but it was never released to the public. I'd say they're probably behind on news aggregators. The present invention relates to an automatic time and attendance recording system. A conventional time and attendance recording system operates under the following operation principle. When a worker leaves a place, a gate opener, which works in conjunction with a time and attendance recording device, automatically records an opening time. The time and attendance recording device only functions in synchronism with the gate opener, therefore, it is necessary to purchase an expensive time and attendance recording device. In addition, even when a worker has left the office, it is necessary for a gate opener to pass the hallway from his office to ensure the job of recording the attendance of workers is completed for the correct location. Therefore, the conventional time and attendance recording system has a problem in that the gate opener's time for recording can be delayed.Santo Domingo Central Cathedral The Santo Domingo Central Cathedral () is a major Roman Catholic church in the city of Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic. It is the seat of the archdiocese. The Santo Domingo Central Cathedral was built between the 10th and 16th centuries. Its construction was started in 1524, it was finished in 1540. It was known as the "Hospital de Santo Domingo" or "Convento de Santo Domingo". It is also known as Santo D
